Sewing by Machinery.

To Journeymen Tailors, Semptresses, Employers, and all others interested in Sewing of any description.

SEVERAL attempts have been made to produce Machines for Sewing, but they were met with so many objections, and could be used to little advantage or profit.

I SINGER & PHELPS' Celebrated Sewing Machine, invented by Isaac M. Singer, and manufactured by Singer & Phelps, No. 19 Harvard Place, Boston, Mass., is offered to the public as a perfect machine, and will be constructed as adapted to perform any kind of work, from the stitching of fine silk ribbon to the stitching of as many thicknesses of leather. The needle is straight, and works perpendicularly upon the cloth, as with the finger, and the stitch is the same as that made by hand, even to the ends.

The stitch made by this machine is one which will not ravel or open, and the seam can only be taken apart by cutting every second thread. From 500 to 1500 stitches, according to the fabric operated upon, may be taken per minute.

To bring this machine to perfection much labor and study have been expended upon it by the inventor, and the subscribers now offer the Belay, with Sewing Machine, feeling confident that it will correspond, upon trial, with the recommendations here given.

No profits arising from the purchase of these machines, which never will exceed fifty or one hundred dollars per day.

The operation of sewing is not confined to the manufacture of clothing, but may be applied to sewing every description of linen, cotton, woolen, and most kinds of leather.

This machine, with ordinary care, is warranted to run one year without repairs, and will last many years. And it is so simple in its construction, and so easily regulated and managed, that any person of ordinary ability may operate it.

The price of one of these machines, which is worked by a treadle, and capable of sewing any kind of men's, women's, or children's clothing, is one hundred dollars, cash or approved notes for operation.

These machines are so much finished and in their appearance, and they take up so little room, that they are an ornament to any lady's sewing apartment.

An Agent, (with whom exclusive arrangements will be made,) is wanted in every city and town in the United States.

All applications for Agencies, and all enquiries, (closing stamp for machines, which will be carefully packed to send to any part of the world,) as well as all inquiries about their adaptation to different purposes, will be promptly attended to by the manufacturers. All letters must be post-paid and addressed to SINGER & PHELPS,

PATENTS

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS

WITH U. S. PATENT OFFICE,

WASHINGTON.

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IN 1849 the subscriber was appointed by the Commissioner of Patents, Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th Sec. of Act of '37.

Having relinquished the Agency for the transmission of Models, and adopted a more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, where by a Patent they be presented about six weeks earlier, he continues to forward them from the Office to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all the necessary Papers and Drawings for Patents; and to render advice on legal and scientific matters, relating the same. Patents secured in Europe and other countries.

By application at this office, inventors are saved the time and expense of a journey to Washington and delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. They also have the advantage of correctly explaining their inventions and of learning in respect to them, matters, in general, of paramount importance in ordering actions, correspondences and claims. The experience of sixteen year's practice, an extensive collection of rare works, decisions, &c., on mechanical subjects, the Patent Laws, and patents of different countries, collected at much expense during the long time this office has been established, together with accounts here kept of inventions patented at Washington, enable the subscriber to afford to inventors assurances of procuring Patents, assistance and information which in other respects might be difficult of attainment.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

WASHINGTON, JULY 21, 1849.—During the time I occupied the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. EDDY, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office as Solicitor for procuring Patents. There were few, if any, persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skillful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring Inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more desirous of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. Late Commissioner of Patents.

Warranted not to Injure Books or Papers by Dampness.

THESE are the only Safes (WILDER'S PATENT) that have in every instance preserved their contents when exposed to large fires, like the burning of the Printing Office in New York city, and many others, too numerous to mention.

The above Safes are manufactured and for sale by JOHN E. WILDER, Boston, and for sale in Bangor, at the manufacturers prices by

FISKE & DALE.

The following letter from the Superintendent of the Magnetic Telegraph Company, is another proof of the superiority of JOHN E. WILDER'S Safe over all others.—

BANGOR, Oct 2, 1849.

John E. Wilder, Esq.—

Dear Sir—The Safe purchased of you was exposed in a great degree of heat at the burning of the Tele'graph Office, in this city. It was in the fire six hours, the books and papers were uninjured, and the damage to the Safe very slight, although it fell from the second story to the basement of the building. The little repairs necessary to the Safe have been made, and we shall not need to return it. It is still as good as new. JAS. EDDY.

We add to our own recommendation, what our readers will see is infinitely more, a letter from the late Ex President, J. Q. Adams:—

WASHINGTON, 27th December 1845.

Of all the periodical Journals devoted to Literature and Science which abound in Europe and in this country, this has appeared to me to be the most useful. It contains indeed the exposition only of the current literature of the English language, but this to immense extent and comprehension includes a vast share of the human mind in the utmost expansion of the present age.

THE CHEAPEST NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD!

THE TRIBUNE FOR 1851.

☞ Now is the time to Subscribe! ☜

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

IS issued every morning, except Sunday, on a large sheet of fine white paper, forming eight pages of six columns each, or about the size of two average Country Newspapers. About six of these pages are now every week filled with the aggregate of Editorials, News and Miscellaneous reading matter, of no other paper in America, daily or weekly, is but half the bulk of our first class Dailies in this County, and less than one fourth the cost of similar journals in England. Two Evening Editions are issued to supply such subscribers, with the latest news up to the hour when the mail must be mailed.

THE TRIBUNE is edited in chief by HORACE GREELEY, who has general charge of all matters pertaining to the Editorial, Legislation, of our own Country.—Its Foreign, Political Weekly Department, is in charge of CHARLES A. DANA, assisted by able correspondents in London, Paris, Constantinople, &c., &c. Its Commercial Intelligence and the City Department are in charge of BAYARD TAYLOR, assisted by an efficient corps of Reporters. No expense is or will be spared to render the news full and accurate, by Telegraph, Expresses, Steamships and Mails, as early and complete as that of any other paper. Price $6 a year, in advance; three months $1,50.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE

Contains nearly all the non-commercial matter of the Daily, carefully condensed, and is issued every Monday and Thursday morning, at $3 a year, in advance.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE

Is issued every Thursday morning, and contains most of the matter of the Daily with more attention to accounts of such events and proceedings as cannot be published in full. We mean that no Weekly shall surpass this in full, graphic and faithful account of what is passing in Doing, worthy of note. Thinking, and honest Progressing.

The Tribune is not yet quite two years old, and has obtained an aggregate circulation of not far from sixty-five thousand copies—about two thirds of them on its Weekly. Every subscription is paid in advance, and the paper stops when the advance pay runs out, so that no man need hesitate to subscribe from an apprehension of being dunned for arrears, perhaps after he has left the place to which the paper is sent. In fairness to the publishers it should be known that this circulation is not forced by premium, and in consequence of the liberal patronage received from all parts of the Union, the Publishers are enabled to offer the following

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The New York Tribune.—The President (R. I.) Morning Journal, of New York city, should no person will fail to recognize a true likeness of the Tribune in the following, from this Boston Bee:

"At the head and front of the Journalism of New York we see, without reservation, place the New York Tribune. In this way, perhaps, he thought a strong antithesis, but we do not think so. The New York Tribune is a paper that gleams many sterling merits, which, on one of the least discriminating can fail to discover, on all the least candor who will but acknowledge. We are well aware that it sometimes takes ground in politics and opinions not always indorsed by the great public, nor perhaps by its own friends—but not the history and the life of the Tribune proved, for the most part, those grounds and those opinions to be correct. It has shown that it has sound and far seeing sagacity, and that, while its sentiments are sometimes in advance of the time, they appear as compounded and visionary, they only so because in advance and rightly above the general opinion.

Among the chief characteristics of the Tribune are judgment, reliability, power, honesty, candor, and great common sense.

The editorials of the Tribune are marked by good sense, strength of reasoning, transparency, good temper, and as a general fact, good logic. They always read the pros and cons of a question, and never insult such of their readers as are desirous of subscribing for a New York paper, if they can afford but one, to take The Tribune.—Worcester Register and Chronicle.

☞ Barring its politics, which of course is not to our taste, The Tribune is one of the best newspapers published in the country. It news is early and authentic, and its literary matter excellent.—Freeman's Journal.

☞ The New York Tribune appeared on Friday last in a new dress, and its marked prosperity is a just tribute to one of the most able journals in the world. The business and position of Mr. Greeley is well known, for years, but Mr. A. Dana and Bayard Taylor add their full quota to the value of the Tribune. Its reviews are written with great ability, and its news department is furnished with the latest intelligence from every quarter of the globe. In the list of its correspondents are some of the ablest minds of the country, and the independence of its tone and position on the leading questions of reform now agitating the public mind, draw around it a host of supporters.—Numerous changes are continually occurring in the political world around us, but we find none in The Tribune; it is the same consistent friend of human liberty and the best interests of the people, the same generous supporter of all social and political reforms, which it was at the commencement of its career. If our estimate will take it, New York paper, we commend The Tribune to them as the most readable journal we know.—Newark (N. J.) Mercury.

☞ We are much offered to The New York Tribune for an exchange. Having had several good tastes of it, we find it almost indispensable. It approximates the nearest to a universal American and Foreign News Journal of any that has fallen under our observation.—Its politics we don't like, but we do admire its sauce, letter, fare, pitch into democratic style of independence in probing the abuses in Government and the absurd conventionalities of society, and in not only pointing out what seems reforms, but leading to them. Its cost the publishers of The Tribune, by any means, that has given it a circulation and a popularity on which "the sun never sets."—Bangor (Me.) Jeffersonian.

THE PILES!

A CURE FOR LIFE SECURED!

DR. UPHAM'S INTERNAL REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF PILES!

THE Valuable and Effectual, invented by Dr. A. Upham, distinguished Physician of New York city, is the only really successful remedy for that dangerous and distressing complaint the Piles, ever offered to the American public!

The Discovery contains no Mineral Medicine, no Alcohol, Cologne, Gamboge, or other powerful or injurious ingredients. No fear of taking cold while under its influence; no change in diet necessary. If taken according to direction a cure is positively guaranteed.

Another certificate added to the hundreds that have already been received of the efficacy of Dr. Upham's Electuary.

New York, August 25, 1849.

Messrs. Wyatt & Ketcham—Gents: For several years past I have been troubled with piles, a very contrivance of the bowels, indigestion and weakness of the system. Having complaint not being to receive aid from Physicians, and I tried a host of physicians and patent medicines, to at until this Spring I never used any medicine or applied to a physician for relief. The Piles being three to severe that I allowed myself to be operated upon, but was forbidden to do so by the physician after this to try another means. I tried a box of Dr. Upham's Electuary by the use of which I found myself entirely cured of the Piles and my health much improved.

I make this statement for the benefit of sufferers, having the same doubt but unbounded confidence in the medicine, and I purchased a box, and am prepared to say every thing in its favor, or tender any service I can to humanity by subscribing my name.

THIS article has been before the public nearly two years, and the proprietor is prepared to say that for REMOVING DANDRUFF, from the scalp,

RESTORING HAIR WHERE FALLEN OFF TEMPORARILY,

and giving it a BEAUTIFUL SOFTNESS, AND GLOSS, CANNOT BE EXCELLED. The basis of this Preservative is a pure vegetable Oil, extracted from a plant found growing luxuriantly in the Western States, and which possesses, in a remarkable degree, the essential properties required for by the vigorous and nervous life glands or roots—thereby so faithfully supply this Preservative, will be surprised at finding their baldness and gloss it renders the Hair, while it clears the scalp of scurf or dandruff, and affords the most agreeable sensations. It has already been extensively used, and in every instance has given perfect satisfaction.

REASONS FOR USING THIS PRESERVATIVE.

1. It is a very pretty, clear article, and has an agreeable perfume.

2. It is put up in a very convenient form, and at a very reasonable price.

3. Acting as a stimulant, it affords relief to the Head debut.

ELEGANT AND INVALUABLE

Articles for the Toilet

Bogle's Hyperion Fluid.

For Restoring, Preserving, and Embellishing the HAIR.

The following Certificate from Dr. Winslow Lewis, one of the most eminent Physicians of Boston, will show the estimation in which it is held by the scientific and learned, better than can only of many similar ones.

Boston, Feb. 15, 1847.

Mr. Wm. Bogle,—Sir: The preparation invented by you for the hair, has been extensively used in my family, and they give to the decided preference over other compositions of the kind. It invigorates and nourishes the hair, and cleanses the skin of all impurities, without producing any ultimate deleterious effects, whatever, so frequently the result of many well-known patented compounds.

WINSLOW LEWIS.

This is an indispensable article for the Ladies, as it keeps the hair in place and curl, and the skin or parting of the hair, free from dandruff and scurf. For children it lays the foundation of a good head of hair.

BOGLE'S AMOLE,

A COMPOUND FOR SHAVING.

This delightful article is totally different and far superior to anything yet invented for shaving. This base of it is derived from the Amole, or "soap plant" of California, an article used by the natives of that country for washing and dress, that is of a strong alkali, yet hurtful to the skin in the least degree, and detergent properties have the purest and most refreshing effects on the skin.—It soothes and allays irritation, and has a fine, thick, creamy lather, which does not dry on the face. It is decided luxury to the shaver, and the inconvenience of using it is done away in a elegant style, (closed tightly either for the traveller or the toilet of the most fastidious connoisseur.

Bogle's Hebeaiona,

FOR REFRESHING AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

Eradicates Tans, Pimples, and other eruptions of the skin, and renders it fair, delicate and blooming. It is equally efficacious in protecting the skin from the hot suns of summer, and freezing blasts of winter, and is the most fragrant and delicious article to be found at the toilet of fashion.

All the above articles have stood the test of the severest examination, and are pronounced superior to any thing yet invented, both if not for and to prove so or trial, the money in all cases, will be refunded by my Agents.

The Metal-Founder of Munich.

When we gaze in admiration at some great work of plastic art, our thoughts naturally recur rather to the master mind where the conception we now see realized first burned into life, than to the many difficulties which he of others might have had to overcome in making the quickened thought a palpable and visible thing. Still is of harmonious; there is such unity throughout, in general form, and directness and adaptedness and proportioned ode to the other, that we think not of roughness or of opposing forces as connected with a work whence all disparities are removed, and where every harshness is smoothed away. There stands the achieved fact in its perfect completeness; there is nothing to remind us of its progress towards that state, for the slide and appliances thereunto have been removed, and the mind, not pausing to dwell on an intermediate condition, at once takes in the realized creation as an accomplished whole. And if even some were inclined to follow in thought such a work to its growth, there are few among them who as they look at a monument of bronze, have any notion how the figure, before the eye grew up into its present proportions. Tiny holes in the womb, and how many and harassing were the anxieties that attended on the gigantic birth.

The sculptor, the painter, the engraver, has each his own department of peculiar difficulties to overcome; but these for the most part are such as skill of manual dexterity will enable him to vanquish. He has not to do with a mighty power that opposes itself to his human strength, and strives for the mastery. He has not to combat an element which he purposely rouses up in fury, and then subjugates to his will. He throws the artist material into the furnace heaps of brass—Cannon upon cannon, and though they were leaden toys, and he a child of fire, and fans and feeds the flames, to within that roaring hollow three feet above ground, of what we have yet seen of fire, and grouping while from very intensity—Around it is piled with fuel, and forced. The fire itself seems convulsed and agonized with its own efforts, but still it rages on. Day by day, and night after night, with not a moment's relaxation, is this fiery work carried on. The air is too hot to breathe; the walls, the rafters, are scorched, and if the roof last much longer, all will soon be in a blaze. The glowing heat becomes insufferable and desperate, and, struggling to burst its prison, while shown in a molten metal sea, breathing and fiery in heaving with its ponderous weight against the cell's sides!

Let it be thought this picture is too highly colored, and it owes anything to the imagination left in leaving, let us look into the foundry of Munich, and see what was going on there at midnight on the 16th of October, 1835.

"When King Louis had formed the resolution of erecting a colossal statue of Bavaria, it was Schwanthaler whom he charged to execute the work. The great artist's conception responded to the idea which had grown in the mind of the king; and in three years' time a model in clay was formed, sixty-three feet in height, the size of the future bronze statue. The colossus was then delivered over to the founder, to be cast in metal. The head was the first large portion that was executed—while the metal was preparing for the cast, a preliminary called the master's mind that, despite his exact reckoning, there might still be insufficient material for the work, and thirty cwt. were added to the half-liquid mass. The result proved how fortunate had been the forethought, nothing could be more successful. And now the cheat of the figure was to be cast; and the matter conceived the bold idea of forming it in one piece. Those who have seen thirty or forty cwt of metal rushing into the mould below, have perhaps started back affrighted at the fiery stream. But 1400 cwt were requisite for this portion of the statue; and the formidable nature of the undertaking may be conceived from the fact that till now, no more than 300 cwt. had ever filled a furnace at one time.

Now, the mass begins slowly to melt; huge pieces of common fuel float on the surface, like boston watery, and then gradually disappear. Presently upon the top of the liquid metal there were to form, threatening danger to the furnace as well as to the model, prepared to receive the fluid bronze. To prevent this crust from forming, six men were employed day and night in stirring the lava-like sea with long poles of iron; retiring, and being replaced by others every now and then, for the scorching heat, in spite of wetted coverings, causes the skin to crack like the dried rind of a tree.—Still the ebullition was being stirred, still more fire was added to new efforts, but the metal was not yet ready to be allowed to flow. Hour after hour, the day passed, and night came on. For twenty-four hours the fire had been kept up and urged to the utmost intensity, and still no one could tell how long this was yet to last. The men worked on at their posts in silence; the fearful heat was still increasing, as though it would never stop. There was a terrible weight in the burning air, and it pressed upon the breasts of all. There was anxiety in their hearts, though they spoke not, but most of all in him who had dared this bold undertaking. For five days he had not left the spot, but, like a Columbus watching for the longly-expected land, had awaited the final moment. On the evening of the fifth day exhausted nature demanded repose, and he sat down to sleep. Hardly had he closed his eyes, when his wife aroused him with the joyful cry, 'Awake, awake, the fire-flies are flying!' And it was so—Nothing could stand such terrible heat. The rafters of the building began to burn. The quarter of an hour in the usual way was impossible, for had any cold dust come in contact with the liquid metal, the consequences would have been frightful; the whole furnace would have been destroyed, and the 400 cwt of bronze lost. With wet cloths, therefore, the burning rafters were covered to smother the flames, but the walls were glowing too; the whole building was now like a vast furnace. Yet still more fuel was added to the fire!—the heart is of enough; the metal has not yet run out. Though the rafters burn, and the walls glow, still feed, and gorge the fire!

At last the moment comes!—the whole mass is boiling! Then the metal founder, Miller by name, called to the men who were extinguishing the burning beams, 'Let them burn; the metal is ready for the cast!' And it was just midnight, when the whole of the rafters of the interior of the building were in flames, that the plug was knocked in, and the fiery flood rushed out into the mould below.

All now breathed more freely; there was an end of reigning and foreboding; and the rude work-men, as if struck by what they had accomplished, wildly gazing in silence, and listening to the roar of the flowing cataract. It was not till the cast was completed that the master gave the signal for extinguishing the burning roof.

In due time the bells of the little chapel of Neuhausen was heard summoning thither the master and his workmen to thank God for the happy completion of the work. No accident had occurred to any during the progress; not one had suffered either in life or limb.

ALL FOR UNIVERSALISTS NOTICE.—If, for a moment, you imagine the neuteress of our senses preternaturally heightened to the extreme limits of telescopic vision, and bring together events separated by intervals of time, the apparent repose which reigns in space will suddenly vanish—countless stars will be seen moving in groups in various directions; nebulæ wandering, condensing, and dissolving; like cosmical clouds; the milky way breaking up in its parts, and its vellent nebulæ. In every point of the surface of the earth, where vegetation is constantly putting forth its leaves and buds, and unfolding its blossoms. The celebrated Spanish botanists, Cavanilles, first conceived the possibility of "seeing grass grow," by placing the horizontal micrometer, wire of a telescope with a highly magnifying power, at one time on the point of a bamboo shoot, and at another, on the rapidly unfolding flowering stem of an American Aloe; precisely as the astronomer places the cross of wires on a culminating star.

There are looking glasses for the face, but none for the mind. The defect must then be supplied by a serious reflection upon one's self.—[Gratian.

Per Order

Bangor, March 4th 1851

☞ We have received a letter from M T Mordenhall Esq, Ordinary of deceased estates at Charleston S C, who was commissioned to take charge of the effects of the late John Spencer who died on board brig Mattanoras Capt. Warren Wasson on his way home from California stating that Capt. Wasson had acted in a very high minded and honorable manner regarding the effects of Mr Spencer and seemed desirous that the afflicted widow of the deceased and her fatherless child should speedily and certainly have the benefit of the sum Mr Spencer had acquired by his hard earnings

Capt. Wasson is a Maine man residing in Columbia and this testimony to his honest sympathy and worth must be highly gratifying to his numerous friends and it affords great pleasure to be the medium of communicating the same to our readers Mr Spencer had with him upwards of a hundred dollars in gold snugly stowed away. His property and will can be found at the store of Messrs Hamblet & Co in Columbia and handed to Capt. Wasson with the request that they be kept for the benefit of his wife and child, for whom he had started in search of land. The treasure was safely kept, unopened until called for by the agent of Mrs Spencer at her request when it was cheerfully delivered and all the circumstances related in a frank and truthful manner to the friend and executor of all concern

Notice of Oxford

The sons of Oxford in this county are to celebrate the anniversary of the organization of that county by a public supper at the Bangor House on this evening at 7 o'clock. The number of these sons is very large in this city, reaching very nearly to a hundred and there too they are expecting a large delegation from the old homestead to be with them on the occasion which will be a splendid affair. It is expected we shall have a large company. The fact is we believe even that Oxford has sent to Bangor a finer smarter sons or more enterprising ones than she has had a favorable influence upon them; for many of them are among our most talented and efficient men—They are bound to have a grand time to night and to awaken with each other a multitude of pleasant memories. We think they have missed the mark in one particular and that is not having the presence of the daughters with them. Dear's have the reputation of being fond of hugging, but this one as one seems to be a departure from this rule and therefore which will lessen their reputation among the animals of other countries

☞ The editor of the Augusta Banner after stating the fact that Gov Hubbard has been wallowing in the snow in Aroostook county goes in very strongly for his being continued in office for seven years and wishes the subject to be considered by the people and by the press. Among the reasons given for the continuance of one man office for several years is the fact that he may have time to mature a system by which he will be able to carry out. And it is urged in behalf of Gov Hubbard before considered that he was born in the State educated in the State, and his habits, sympathies and interests are with the State

In consideration of Gov Hubbard being a Kennebec man we think the term named a very moderate and modest. We expected it would have been twenty or a dozen at least but as it is only seven the suggestion is worthy serious consideration. The county of Kennebec has suffered immensely from the trading spirit of the far famed for office and other benefits with the Hallowell, and thirty old age for a Governor for only seven years and the sharp eye of a State policy are eminently due to her. We shall watch with much anxiety the course of the loco press with regard to this matter and they may be presumed to have a more potent influence in it than the Whig press. If they agree to it and the party ecede the thing will be brought about. We doubt whether there is any other man of the party who can satisfy both wings of the party as Gov Hubbard has done, and we believe he could continue to do

The Portland Advertiser wishes the term limited to five years but when that paper comes to review the whole matter it will doubtless be willing to accept the proposition of seven years as under the circumstances exceedingly liberal

☞ It is stated that General Pacheco Orbea is actively engaged in recruiting men in Paris for the service of Mob o Video. The recruiting is encouraged at the Perfecture of Police. It is calculated that from 1000 to 1,500 young men who formerly belonged to the Garde Mob e and who had enrolled themselves as emigrants to California have decided on taking service with the Montevidean General so anxious are they to quit Paris. It is not likely that any difficulty will be placed in their way by the French Government. These young adventurers having led a wild life for two years and find difficulty to enter on more peaceful occupations. The authorities will consequently rather encourage than obstruct them in their present purpose

☞ To-morrow religious services will be held at the Universalist Church in the morning sermon by Rev Mr Weles. In the afternoon the ordination of Rev Mr Battles as pastor of the Universalist Church will take place. Sermon by Rev Thomas Starr King of Boston. In the evening the ladies of the Universalist Society will hold a grand Levee at the City Hall, to which they invite the public attention. Connected with this Levee is a fair for the sale of fancy and useful articles, for the very laudable purpose of establishing the library connected with the flourishing Sabbath School of this society. There will be many attractions connected with this Levee, making it worthy the attention and support of all

Elections to the U S Senate.

Since the first of January six States have elected U S. Senators viz —R. F Stockton N Jersey; Henry F Geyer Missouri, Lewis Cass, Michigan; Robert Rantoul Jr, Massachusetts, Jesse D Bright, Indiana, and Gen. James, Rhode Island.

Commodore Stockton is the first naval officer ever elected to the U. S. Senate, with the exception of the Hon. Louis McLane who was a midshipman who resigned in 1802, and was elected a Senator from Delaware from 1827 to 1829.

Mr. Bailey's Evening Free School.

The editor of the Portland Advertiser has recently made a visit to Salem and writes thus —

I enjoyed a fine opportunity of visiting Mr Bailey's widely and justly celebrated Evening Free School in two successive meetings. On arriving at Salem Hall the size of a respectable church perhaps 50 by 75 feet in size, brilliantly lighted by chandeliers and side lamps and filled up with every convenience for a large school. There were present on the two respective evenings 140 and 131 scholars and 10 teachers. There were also present on the two evenings the female department of the whole number of scholars at any one session about 240. Every thing for singing to the school was orderly and pleasing. All were diligent and earnest teachers and pupils. The teaching is all voluntary and great interest in the female department is taught by about 20 gentlemen—clergymen, lawyers physicians and merchants. The city appropriates $ 100 for the annual contingent expenses. I would gladly occupy a column in further description but must forbear.

The school was one of the great instruments used for good in the institutions of the City Missionary. By means of it he is enabled to reach hundreds of men and to promote by true elevation the condition of many families. By means of the school he brings a series of personal co operation with him a large number of the benevolent gentlemen of Salem and a variety of the best teachers.

We wish to say that if at any time when such a school may be well established in the City it should be. There is shown the great need for such a school when it is found that only a day school requires one does not yield those satisfactory results which were possibly anticipated. The attendance on each evening taken up with exhibitions and recitations of less importance than the exercises of regular attendance to the pupils. The school for the education of young men about to enter on active life.

We do not see why shall fully comprehend the great necessity of preventing evil and its consequent poverty, rather than curing them there will be an increasing necessity of such simple schools as that the will be for the public schools for all to have access to for other purposes as Mr Bailey has established.

Agricultural.

Mr Fessenden. As some of your readers may be anxious to learn the prospects of our infant school in Glenburn we will give a sketch. Our number is small but we are united. Our greatest difficulty is the lack of text books to which we take John Stone's Agricultural Chemistry as our general authority aided by the Farmer's Manual &c., and here we have been retarded—not filling them in the city—but this difficulty is being removed as the book dealers are getting them from abroad

Our course of lessons thus far has been—

1st The names and properties of all the elements that enter into vegetable and animal life, and the principles according to chemistry analogy (or chemical nomenclature).

2d The combinations of the elements, their equivalent proportions and their derivative names as related to them

3d The four organic elements their properties and relation to vegetable growth their locality &c

4th The ten inorganic elements their combinations and re combinations their locality and tendency

Our manner of instruction is to take a subject (a chapter in Johnston for instance) and state what we conceive to be facts in the case as a lawyer would state a case to a court and jury which we take down in their hearing. Each subject or chapter for examination we have reviewed at the next meeting to turn out every difficulty

Should any of numerous readers wish to they will call near West Market Square and read the books above referred to any may do who find any of our exercises as they may appear in the scraps through your medium correspondence a copy of text books we so much favor

Commissioners to England.

Gov Hubbard and the Executive Council have appointed seven gentlemen to represent the several interests of Maine at the World's Industrial Convention and Exhibition to be held in London next summer and one has published the plan of the metropolis. Peter Vaughan Long a convention of the Hallowell Vaughans family and for nearly a hundred years to assemble and correspond with the delegates during their residence on the Exhibition. The following are the Commissioners

Alpheus Johnson Belfast
Peter Whitten Jr Biddeford,
Rufus K. Page Hallowell
Charles Metcalf Lincolnton,
Alvan H Bean Saco
Abner Coburn Bloomfield
William A. Drew, Augusta

Judge Johnson is a gentleman and a scholar, who will represent well the literary and social character of Maine. He would indeed, make a good representative of our National Government at the Court of St James. He is one of the finest writers in New England, and will be able to prepare a valuable Report of the mission for the Government and people. R. K Page Esq is one of the largest ship owners in the State and has a perfect knowledge of all our commercial and manufacturing interests. The ship building State will be well represented in him—Mr Wetherell and Gen Bond are largely concerned in manufacturing, and will spend several months in visiting the establishments of Great Britain with a view to improvements in our own country. Rev Mr Miller is an Episcopalian clergyman of the Baptist denomination now a resident of this State who is well acquainted in England, and will essentially aid his fellow stranger colleagues in the mother country—Mr Coburn is a large land lord owning extensive timber lands in Maine and Wisconsin, who is one of the heaviest lumber operators in the State. The representation, therefore is good—all but the last. What can be do? Whatever he says? He would like to do something for Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts and the Industrial interests of the most industrious of all agencies, the over working Press.—Gospel Banner

Gray Scott—In the last number of the Daily Georgian published at Savannah we find an editorial in answer to an article in the Pennsylvanian of Philadelphia where it was confidently asserted that General Winfield Scott could not as a candidate for the Presidency hope to get a Southern Electoral vote. The editor of the Georgian ridicules the simplicity of his Northern contemporary and says that what every one may think of General Scott's nomination by a Whig Name of Convention. He would be warmly supported by Whig Southern Support the same. He might have added with even more confidence, that the gallant old Hero of forty wars in which he sustained with such eminent skill bravery and devotion the interests and honor of his country will be supported most cordially by the Southern people

THE Great American Remedy

FOR Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Croup, and all diseases of the Chest and Lungs, has now been so long before the public, and its reputation so well established, both from recommendations of Physicians, and from the invariable test more of its infallible virtues by all who have used it, as to render it unnecessary to say more than that it maintains even superior to the use of every other article heard for the same and kindred complaints. As a family medicine, it can never be outfound. In double the usual dose, it almost invariably vomits the child in the first stages of croup, and relieves and quiets it immediately. For quite a number of years it has been the favorite and universal remedy in all the cases named, in one of the most celebrated and skilful Physicians

FOR

Coughs, Colds, Consumptions,

AND ALL AFFECTIONS OF THE LUNGS.

The VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM having been tested by the experience of thousands and for the last twenty years, is recommended by our most physicians and friends of the afflicted, as decidedly, as superior to any other preparation before the public.

From the Editor of the Barre Gazette, May 17, 1850—It is with pleasure we recommend to our readers Dr Wistar's Pulmonary Balsam of Wild Cherry, prepared by Rufus S Cutler, of Boston, as we are personally acquainted with the gentleman and know him to be a worthy citizen, and we believe his medicine to be all that is recommended. That it will become the most popular medicine ever put forth for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Consumption, we have no doubt, for its unparalleled success in the cure of the above complaints, and the unbounded confidence reposed in it by those who have used it, are sufficient guarantees for its future popularity. Read the following and above testimony, bearing on the subject, and then call and get a bottle of the Balsam, and be convinced that it will do all that is recommended. It is for sale by Messrs Read & Taylor and above druggists, and by druggists generally throughout the country.
